Oh, Lord, I reckon I’m not much just by myself. I fail to do a lot of things I ought to do. But, Lord, when trails are steep and passes high, help me ride it straight the whole way through. And when in the failing dusk I get the final call, I do not care how many flowers they send—above all else the happiest rail would be for You to say to me, “Let’s ride, My friend.” Amen.
